FREE Water Conservation and Stormwater Management Workshops for Delaware County Residents, Businesses and Municipal Officials

The Delaware County Conservation District and Pennsylvania Resources Council present "We All Live Downstream;" a free, multimedia, interactive presentation to inform residents on water conservation and storm water management practices for households, businesses and municipalities.

Residents will learn about conserving water in the home, environmentally friendly auto care, sump pump drainage retrofits and proper function of storm water management basins. The series will also discuss the benefits of native landscaping for water conservation, rain gardens and rain barrels.

Register online by visiting www.prc.org or www.delcocd.org.
You can also call the Delaware County Conservation District at (610) 892-9484.
